Aditya Singh

Hi everyone. My name is Aditya Singh. I live in New York City and my main hobbies, I like to play football. I like to listen to songs, watch movies. And my future goal is to get a course degree in data science. So yeah, that's a brief introduction about me.

Kimberly Aguillard

Thank you. Can you talk about the kinds of announcements or invitations that make you feel interested in learning more about a program or going to an activity?

Aditya Singh

Yeah, I'm definitely interested in learning more about these activities because I'm a person with a disability. It will help me to know more about these programs and I also make other people aware about this programs as well. And I can also voice my opinion in these activities. It will also create a positive impact in the community by raising my opinion.

So the help that I can do for my city is, I think, invaluable. So, yeah, I guess, thanks.

Kimberly Aguillard

Can you tell us where you're most likely to hear about programs or activities in your community?

Aditya Singh

I would like to know more about this programs through social media like Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, through TV, radio and other community organization. So, yeah.

Kimberly Aguillard

And what advice or tips do you have for organizations who are trying to reach out-of-school youth with disabilities from minority backgrounds, with programs.

Aditya Singh

My sum advice for some of those organizations is, they should emphasize more on the youth with disabilities, on what they can do, rather than their disabilities. They can partner with some NGOs and when they conduct some focus group or meetings, they should mention the purpose of the group, why it is conducted and how it will help the people with disabilities.

So, yeah, thank you.
