A. Introduction

On November 2, 2015, the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) issued a final rule with comment period describing the methods for monitoring access to covered Medicaid services. This final rule clarifies that states must identify payment rate comparisons for services by provider type and site of service.¹ It requires that each state's Access Monitoring Review Plan (AMRP) include percentage comparisons of Medicaid payment rates to other public payment rates (including, as practical, Medicaid managed care rates) and payment rates for private health insurers within geographic areas of the state.²

The frequently asked questions document that CMS released on March 16, 2016,³ acknowledged that for many services, Medicare payment rates may be the most readily available option for rate comparisons. However, for private-rate comparisons, states might consider rates paid by plans offered in state-based exchanges, payment information from third-party vendors, survey information, or all-payer claims databases.

This toolkit is a resource to help states identify and access data containing payment rates. It includes information about (and links to) payment rates for two public payers, Medicare and Tricare; links to states' Medicaid physician fee schedules on the web; and information about sources of private payment rate data that may be available to states for the purpose of Medicaid rate comparisons. In addition, this toolkit provides a short introduction to the accompanying AMRP rate comparison tool. Extensive information is provided in two appendices—including links to 50 states' online physician fee schedules, with a description of the content of each site and a list of procedure (HCPCS/CPT) codes⁴ that states can use at their discretion to map each code to a service category (primary care, including dental; physician specialist services; behavioral health; prenatal and postnatal obstetric services; and home health).

This toolkit is a living document: the information it contains will be updated regularly, as new data sources are identified and links and other information may change.

¹ The final rule with comment period states that, because the statutory provisions in Section 1902(a)(30)(A) of the act refer to payment rates and comparisons to the general population, "it is necessary for states to compare Medicaid payment rates to the rates of Medicare or private payers" (Federal Register, vol. 80, no. 211, November 2, 2015, p. 67585; see <https://www.gpo.gov/fdsys/pkg/FR-2015-11-02/pdf/2015-27697.pdf>). Sections of the rule related to state reporting requirements were made final on April 8, 2016. ⁴ Healthcare Common Procedure Coding System (HCPCS) codes designate specific medical procedures. The code set is divided into three levels; the most commonly used are Level I and Level II. HCPCS Level I codes are identical to current procedural terminology (CPT); HCPCS Level II codes represent nonphysician services such as ambulance rides, durable medical equipment, and products used in procedures. HCPCS Level III codes (which typically start with an alphabetic character X or Z) represent an item or service not included in the HCPCS Level I and Level II codes; they are considered local codes and are not nationally accepted. See <http://www.medicalbillingandcoding.org/hcpcs-codes/>; and <http://www.codingahead.com/2009/08/hcpcs-level-iii-codes.html>.

B. Sources of public payment rate data and search tools

The following sections describe several sources of public payer information, including Medicare, Tricare, and sources of other state Medicaid payment rates. Both Medicare and Tricare offer online payment rate tools that are searchable by geographic area (including, in many states, by substate area), and by procedure code or standard service name. The tools can be used to assemble and download a database that states can compare with Medicaid payment rates. The states can use this database in their own analyses or upload it to the AMRP tool that accompanies this toolkit.

Many state Medicaid programs post physician fee schedules online; several states used such rates from comparable states as comparison public payer rates in their initial AMRPs. This toolkit provides an extensive list and description of these state sources.

1. Search tool for Medicare physician fee schedules

The Searchable Medicare Physician Fee Schedule (MPFS) allows users to obtain Medicare payment information for more than 10,000 services. The MPFS website is found at <https://www.cms.gov/apps/physician-fee-schedule/search/search-criteria.aspx>. A user manual with detailed instructions for using the search tool is found at https://www.cms.gov/Outreach-and-Education/Medicare-Learning-Network-MLN/MLNProducts/downloads/How_to_MPFS_Booklet_ICN901344.pdf.

Users can obtain pricing information for services after selecting options associated with several search criteria. As shown in Exhibit 1, these criteria include the year of interest; the type of information; the HCPCS criteria; and the specific Medicare administrative contractor (MAC) option or locality of interest, along with the modifier. Below, we briefly explain each criterion:

- Year: Users can select data from 2000 to 2017.
- Type of information: Users can select pricing information, payment policy indicators, relative value units, geographic practice cost index, or all of these options. For the purpose of comparing payment rates, the pricing information will likely be most useful for states. This option shows facility and nonfacility prices and limiting charges as well as conversion factors.
- HCPCS criteria: Users can select whether to search for information on a single HCPCS or CPT code, a code list, or a code range.
- Select MAC option: Users can select national payment amounts, specific MACs, or specific localities. MACs generally cover an entire state, a large portion of a state (such as Northern California or Southern California), or in some cases, a group of states or territories (such as Hawaii/Guam/American Samoa/Northern Mariana Islands). Specific localities generally cover smaller geographic areas, such as (in California) San Francisco County or Los Angeles County.
- Modifier: Users can select from several types of modifiers: (1) global (diagnostic service) or physician professional service to which the professional/technical concept does not apply; (2) professional components, including procedures that the physician terminated before completion; and (3) technical component. States may choose to use only codes without modifiers for comparison.

In addition to information on prices, users can obtain payment policy indicators such as global surgery days, multiple surgery indicators, and the applicability of professional and technical components.

2. Tricare Allowable Charges database

The Tricare Allowable Charges search tool allows users to obtain Tricare maximum allowable charges for the most frequently used services covered by Tricare.⁵ The website is found at <https://health.mil/Military-Health-Topics/Business-Support/Rates-and-Reimbursement/Tricare-Allowable-Charges>.

⁵ Tricare covers Uniformed Service members and their families. Uniformed Service members include active duty, reserve, and retired members of the U.S. Army, U.S. Air Force, U.S. Navy, U.S. Marine Corps, U.S. Coast Guard, the Commissioned Corps of the U.S. Public Health Service, and the Commissioned Corps of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Association. In addition to their current family members, Tricare covers survivors, former spouses who have not remarried, Medal of Honor recipients and their families, and others registered in the Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System.

Users can find the allowed charge amounts for services after entering the relevant search criteria. As shown in Exhibit 3, these criteria include geographic area (zip code or state) and provider type. Users can also search by keyword, such as “office visit.” After users select a geographic location, the search tool will produce a table showing allowable charges for physicians and nonphysicians by care setting (office vs. hospital). Exhibit 4 shows current allowable charges for office visits in San Francisco, California, by type of visit. Note that actual payments to Tricare providers might be less than the amounts posted, if regional or local discounts have been negotiated.

The tool does not allow users to search or download information by HCPCS/CPT code, but the service descriptions appear to be standard. Users could use Excel or statistical software (such as SAS) to externally match service descriptions to a HCPCS/CPT code list. If needed, a list of CPT codes that map to the five required services categories in the AMRP is provided in Appendix A and is available electronically in the AMRP tool that accompanies this toolkit. This mapping is offered only to provide guidance; each state should decide what mapping makes the most sense in the context of its Medicaid program.

Medicaid may cover some procedures that Tricare does not. A list of procedure codes for which Tricare does not pay is found at <https://health.mil/Military-Health-Topics/Business-Support/Rates-and-Reimbursement/No-Government-Pay-Procedure-Code-List>.

3. Other state Medicaid rates

Many states publish Medicaid fee schedules that other states can use to compare their Medicaid rates. Appendix B includes the most recent (in general, 2017) publicly available fee schedules from 49 states and the District of Columbia, based on Google searches for each state conducted in March 2017. The tables include links and descriptions of services in each of the five AMRP service categories.

When a state fee schedule covers services that span several or all service categories, the same fee schedule is included for each relevant service category. States can use the information in Appendix A to map HCPCS/CPT codes to service descriptions (and, if desired, to each of the five AMRP service categories) when a state's fee schedule shows payment amounts by CPT code without a description of the service.

C. Sources of private payment rate data

Some states might have access to data from private payers within their state for the purpose of comparing private payer rates with Medicaid rates. Such sources might include rates paid by the state employee plan, plans that offer coverage in state-based or state-partnership marketplaces,⁶ and one or more large in-state insurers. In addition, some states maintain data warehouses that might include payment information for certain types of payers, such as managed care companies. In their 2016 AMRP submissions, several states obtained private payer rates from such sources for comparison with Medicaid rates.

Other states obtained private payer rates (or anticipated developing comparison rates in 2018) from the state's All Payer Claims Database (APCD) or from a commercial source of private payer claims data. Described below, these sources are potentially available to many states for analysis of private payer rates. Unlike the sources of public payer rates described in Section II, none of these private-payer sources offers immediately downloadable data for comparison with Medicaid rates. And because even these sources may not include dental claims, states may need to look to other sources (such as published survey results) to obtain comparison payment rates.

1. State all-payer claims databases

By December 2016, 16 states had an operational APCD.⁷ Typically, APCDs contain both claims and encounter records—including medical, dental, and pharmacy claims—from the state's largest commercial insurers. In states where third-party administrators do not submit claims and encounter records to the APCD, the data are most representative of payments for covered services in small-group and individual insurance plans.

⁷ These states are Alaska, Arkansas, Connecticut, Colorado, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Oregon, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Utah, and Vermont. See <http://www.ncsl.org/research/health/collecting-health-data-all-payer-claims-database.aspx> and <http://www.apcdouncil.org/state/map>.

APCD records typically include information on the type of service (HCPCS/CPT or ICD procedure code), type of service provider, facility type, health plan payment, member payment responsibility, and dates of service. In general, full-year APCD data lag by at least 18 months—so that claims records with dates of service in 2015 might become available for use in late 2016 or early 2017. However, part-year data (for example, with dates of service in January through June) might become available sooner and probably would suffice for the purpose of analyzing comparison rates for an AMRP. Rules and procedures governing the release of APCD data vary by state.⁸

2. Proprietary sources of private payment data

Several entities compile commercial claims and encounter records and license use of these data for research purposes. Described below, these entities include FAIR Health, the Health Care Cost Institute (HCCI), and MarketScan. In general, accessing any of these data sources would require executing a contract or license agreement.

FAIR Health⁹ is a nonprofit entity that receives data for fully insured and self-insured plans based on claims contributed by 60 private insurers and third-party administrators nationwide, representing more than 150 million covered lives annually. Contributors submit all of their claims data from every state in which they are active; the submitted data represent each contributor's full set of claims for the submission period.

Fair Health's benchmark data are based on 12 consecutive months of recent claims data, refreshed twice annually. Among the fields available in the claims records are procedure code, provider zip code, date of service, and imputed aggregated allowed amount and billed charge for medical/surgical, dental, ambulatory surgery center, inpatient, outpatient, and HCPCS Level II services, products, and supplies.

As a CMS Qualified Entity, FAIR Health has met a CMS requirement that its commercial data are statistically representative for each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia.¹⁰ The data are organized into 493 distinct geographic areas or "geozips" (typically defined by the first three digits of the zip code) nationwide; they also can be organized by CMS service areas or customized geographic regions.

FAIR Health offers states a variety of options for accessing and using its data. For a nominal fee, FAIR Health will grant any state Medicaid program a license to use its FH Online Query tool to look up benchmark allowed amounts and billed charges by procedure code. In addition, FAIR Health can provide data dashboards that juxtapose Medicare, Medicaid, and commercial data at the procedure and geozip level. Alternatively, states can obtain benchmark data files to use in their own systems, or request customized analytics to meet particular needs. States also can obtain unlimited online access to the FAIR Health consumer website, <https://fairhealthconsumer.org/>, which allows users to look up commercial payers' average allowed amounts by single-procedure code (or common name) and geozip for all official medical and dental codes; the website does not support searches or downloads by service code range.

⁹ See <http://www.fairhealth.org/About-FH>.

¹⁰ CMS Qualified Entities also receive all Parts A, B, and D Medicare claims data from CMS.

FAIR Health offers in-house technical, statistical, and customer support teams to assist states with the data and tools they select. Currently states use FAIR Health data for various purposes, such as to develop “usual and customary” benchmarks for insurance reimbursement, to establish in-network and out-of-network fee schedules, to inform the design of benefits and provider networks, and to illustrate plans’ reimbursement methods.

Health Care Cost Institute (HCCI)¹¹ is a non-profit, independent research organization. HCCI’s data include claims for more than 100 million workers and dependents covered by employer-sponsored insurance from Aetna, Humana, Kaiser Permanente, and UnitedHealthcare. From these claims, HCCI has developed a common set of data elements that include HCPCS/CPT procedure and modifier codes, dates of service, place of service, revenue code, provider zip code, plan payment amount, and the member’s cost share. HCCI is a CMS Qualified Entity, so has met a CMS requirement that its commercial data are statistically representative for each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

In general, HCCI makes its data available to academic research teams on approval and execution of a data use agreement, and only for use in a protected research environment (the Enclave) where the data and work are stored and users have access to a variety of software and tools. HCCI might make these data available to a state via a university partner. Alternatively, HCCI is willing to offer a turn-key solution using these data to help states benchmark Medicaid payment rates to commercial payment rates.

HCCI also operates a consumer-focused website, Guroo.com, which provides national, state, and local cost and quality information for common health conditions and services, organized into 295 “care bundles.” Some care bundles (such as an office visit) may involve one or more commonly performed procedures; more complex bundles (such as a knee replacement) are presented in “steps” (for example, the cost information for knee replacement surgery and X-rays is separate). Guroo.com supports statewide estimates and estimates for metropolitan statistical areas (MSAs).¹² Although the website is free and accessible to the public, it does not support searches by service code or the downloading of payment rate data for a range of services.

¹¹ See <http://www.healthcostinstitute.org/>.

¹² The U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) defines an MSA as one or more adjacent counties or county equivalents that have at least one urban core area of at least 50,000 residents, plus adjacent territory that has a high degree of social and economic integration with the core as measured by commuting ties. As of 2015, OMB has defined 382 MSAs for the United States and 7 for Puerto Rico. Population data listed by 2016-defined MSAs can be found at <https://www.census.gov/programs-surveys/metro-micro/data/tables.2016.html>.

MarketScan. Truven Health Analytics operates the MarketScan databases,¹³ which contain claims and encounter data for more than 230 million patients since 1995. MarketScan includes commercial medical and drug data as a “core” data set, constructed from the databases that Truven Health Analytics builds on behalf of large employers and health plans nationwide. The data are based on a large convenience sample that includes mostly large employers; medium and small firms are under-represented in MarketScan data.

The MarketScan commercial data include employer groups in every state, geocoded to states and Metropolitan Statistical Areas. The data reflect care and payment arrangements in a variety of fee-for-service, fully capitated, and partially capitated health plans—including preferred provider organizations, exclusive provider organizations, point-of-service plans, indemnity plans, health maintenance organizations, and consumer-directed health plans. The core commercial data set includes procedure codes, place and dates of service, and complete payment information (total and facility and professional components), including consumer cost sharing amounts. Accessing MarketScan data requires data management software, such as SAS, DataProbe®, or MarketScan Online Tools.

All MarketScan claims databases are proprietary. Truven Health Analytics will license the use of the data for specific purposes. Truven also offers analytic services using the data, as well as programmer support to licensees.

3. Sources of data on private payer rates for dental services

Each of the above sources of data—including APCDs and the proprietary data sources—may contain dental claims that specify allowed amounts. Dental payment rates can also be obtained from at least two other industry sources:

- The American Dental Association (ADA) Survey of Dental Fees captures information from 1,695 dentists who responded to its 2016 survey.¹⁴ The survey is conducted every few years and has a low response rate. The data include average fees (and percentiles for each fee) charged by general practitioners and can be disaggregated into nine U.S. census divisions, but the data are not valid at the state or substate level. Dental procedures are identified by procedure code and nomenclature from the Code on Dental Procedures and Nomenclature, published in the ADA’s CDT 2016. The 2016 survey is available to nonmembers for $200.
- The National Dental Advisory Service Comprehensive Fee Report provides updated dental fees by percentile for more than 350 CDT-3 codes. It is based on an Annual Confidential Fee Survey; no information about the survey sample or response rate is available. The 2017 data can be licensed for $609.¹⁵

¹⁴ See <http://success.ada.org/en/practice-management/finances/survey-of-dental-fees>. The survey data represent a 13 percent response rate from a random (probability) sample of 13,000 dentists in private practice, including member and nonmember dentists.

D. Rate comparison tool

CMS provides an Excel-based tool to help states develop the AMRPs. Users can enter Medicaid payment rates into the tool with HCPCS/CPT codes, along with comparison data extracted from Medicare, Tricare, or commercial sources. The tool will align the data sources by HCPCS/CPT code (and, if entered, provider type and payment modifier) and calculate percentage comparisons. States can use the tables or graphs created from this tool for reporting purposes. The tool is intended to help states with future submissions, but states are not required to use it.

The tool assumes that states can compare their Medicaid payment rates to other payers' rates by HCPCS/CPT codes. States that establish rates using other service designations or payment methodologies will be unable use the tool directly. However, understanding the analytic premise of the tool might still be helpful.

When users open the tool, they will find separate tabs for Medicaid, Medicare and up to three additional comparison data sources. On each tab, users are prompted to enter payment rate and volume data in four fields:

1. The HCPCS/CPT Code on the state's Medicaid and Other Payer tabs.
2. The Provider Type, limited to a list specified by the TMSIS reporting system (and made available in an appendix to the user guide provided with the tool)
3. The Rate Type, limited to either "Facility" or "Non-Facility"
4. The Payment Rate, which may be Medicaid, Medicare, or another payer depending on the data entry tab

In addition, on the Medicaid data entry tab, they will be prompted to enter volume data—namely, the number of Medicaid Claim Lines associated with each CPT/Provider Type/Rate Type combination. The tool will automatically validate the data (issuing alerts for users to review anomalous codes), assign the CPT code/provider type/payment modifier in each data source to a service category, calculate percentage comparisons across data sources, and aggregate the comparisons within the five service categories.

The tool calculates both unweighted and weighted percentage comparisons. The unweighted comparisons calculate the simple average of the state's Medicaid payment rates within a service category, in effect assuming the same volume of services for each CPT/Provider Type/Rate Type combination in the service category. This simple average is compared to the simple average for the same CPT/Provider Type/Rate Type combination in the comparison payment rate data.

The weighted percentages assume that the volume of services associated with each CPT/Provider Type/Rate Type combination in the comparison payment rate data equals the volume of services associated with each these combinations in the state's own Medicaid data. That is, the weighted percentages consider the state's own Medicaid service "market basket" when comparing payment rates in each service category.

The Medicaid Access Tool User Guide (May 2017) offers additional details on how to use the tool.
